July 22, 2019

AAI presented the Pan African Climate Finance Access Programme in Rabat, Morocco, 22-23 July 2019.

Ambassador Seyni Nafo, AAI Coordinator, presented the Pan African Climate Finance Access Programme to participants convening for the First Dialogue on Resource Mobilisation to Support the Adaptation and Resilience of Agriculture in Africa. The presentation was described as “one of the highlights and central moments” of this first dialogue, which took place in Rabat (Skhirate), Morocco on 22-23 July 2019.

The Pan African Climate Finance Access Programme will provide relevant expertise adapted to the constraints and needs of African countries, including access to a directory of international and national experts active at the African, regional and national levels.

The programme will also facilitate access to and mobilization of both public and private resources at the national and/or international levels for agricultural adaptation within the framework of the CDNs and national and local strategic plans and programmes to combat climate change, in line with the provisions of the Paris Agreement.

This will contribute to the provisions of the Paris Agreement as well as the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals.
